Bathroom Drain Cleaning

Strainers placed over the drains in the bath and shower catch most of the hair that could go down the drain, but they doesn't always catch everything. It's also common to find hair in the drains of the sink, where you may have spent time styling your hair or shaving your beard. Once in the drain, these small hair clogs can quickly start trapping soap and toothpaste residue, making larger blockages that cause major problems. A regular cleaning ensures that you never have to worry about slow drainage in your bathroom.

Basement and Utility Drain Cleaning

Most basements, patios, laundry rooms, garages, and driveways have drains in the floor that are meant to have a small bit of water inside them to prevent sewage smell. However, these drains can also become clogged, as dirt continually falls into the drain. With a proper drain cleaning, you won't have to worry about floods damaging the items you store in your basement. Beehive Plumbing can open and clean the drains quickly to restore proper drainage.

Outdoor Drain Cleaning

Gutters are essential for protecting houses. They direct rain water far away from your home's roof, sides, and foundation. If the gutters get backed up, pooling water can cause major damage and result in expensive repairs. Many homes in Utah have drains that seem to go into the ground, but they're actually directing water into the sewer. These gutters and drains frequently get blocked by falling leaves, preventing the proper flow of water. Regular cleaning is the solution.

Water Jetting

Water jetting is one of the safest ways to clean the inside of your drains. A strong blast of water knocks off any debris and buildup that's causing you problems. This is much gentler on pipes than methods that might scratch your pipes, slowly wearing them down over time. Our hydro-jetting service is the solution you want for regular maintenance.
