Signs of a Possible Plumbing Leak

Some leaks leave their calling card and can be easy to spot. If you observe any of the following, do not hesitate to call us for confirmation and location of the problem.

- Higher-than-normal water bill
- Sound of unexpected running water
- Rattling noises
- Mold or mildew forming
- Refilling pools or other water bodies more than expected
- Pooling, however small, around shower or toilet
- Low water pressure in the shower or tub
- Change in water color or slow draining in shower or tub
- Discolored or loose tiling
- Cracks in foundation

Not All Leaks are Easy to Detect

While the above are all great ways to self-test whether there may be a leak, some leaks can avoid detection. Sewer lines are best inspected with high-tech camera inspection equipment. Sewer line camera inspection provides an easy approach to locating problems in the sewer and drain lines. There is a world of plumbing behind walls and under floorboards that the eyes and ears cannot observe, and not all leaks leave obvious breadcrumbs leading to their source. Often, these are the most expensive leaks because the damage slowly worsens until inexpensive repairs are the only option.

Beehive Plumbing's skilled plumbers provide the best leak detection Utah has to offer. Using a modern pipe inspection camera, our Utah plumbers can quickly identify the source of any leak, even if it is hidden from view. No matter how good the water is at getting out, our plumbing technicians are even better at getting in. Whether the leak is concealed by walls, flooring, your yard, or even concrete slabs and asphalt, no leak is too small or too hidden for us to find with our pipe inspection camera.
